COFFEE

Coffee Pricing explained

The coffee industry is experiencing an all time high price of raw product.

For the first time in history the world is consuming more coffee than the combined growersaround the world can produce.
On top of this poor conditions in Brazil have meant that the problems continue to mount. Farmers that we've worked with for decades are cancelling contracts and shipping delays are getting over 3 months past due, meaning roasters are fighting for produce driving prices even higher.

Conditions are not expected to improve until 2027. Further to this the AUD is unstable and the coffee stock market is volatile with exporters not willing to make contracts without clear forecasts.

Many roasters are opting for the lowest grade mouldy coffees collected from the ground after harvest to try to keep prices down and create unsustainable pricing for a short term outlook.

Honeybird Coffee pick beans that are fresh, meaning labour is more, therefore costs are more.

Coral Lee is committed to serving quality coffee.
For this we have to pay a premium for guaranteed quality and supply.
